FOR THE WESTERN DISTRICT OF MICHIGAN
NORTHERN DIVISION

SCOTT DOUGLAS LASLO,

Petitioner,

v.

Case No. 2:06-cv-93
HON. R. ALLAN EDGAR

LINDA M. METRISH,

Respondent.

REPORT AND RECOMMENDATION

Petitioner Scott Douglas Laslo filed this petition for writ of habeas corpus challenging the validity of his state court convictions for third degree criminal sexual conduct. Petitioner was convicted after a plea of sexually molesting his 8 year old daughter. Petitioner was convicted in Otsego and Montmorency Counties and given concurrent sentences. Petitioner was sentenced in Otsego County to 84 to 180 months imprisonment and in Montmorency County to 4 to 15 years imprisonment.

Petitioner maintains that his sentences violated his federal rights. The respondent has filed an answer and has complied with Rule 5 of the Rules Governing Section 2254 Cases in the United States District Courts. The parties have briefed the issues and the matter is now ready for decision. In accordance with 28 U.S.C. § 636(b), authorizing United States Magistrate Judges to submit proposed findings of fact and recommendations for disposition of prisoner petitions, I am recommending that this petition for writ of habeas corpus be denied.

Petitioner has raised the following issues in his petition:

- I. Trial court abused discretion and denied defendant due process when it improperly used old judicial guidelines to determine sentence, yet imposed sentence according to new TIS Legislative Guidelines, thereby sentencing defendant under both standards.
- II. Defendant's right to due process of law was violated when trial court imposed sentence departure from guidelines based on a reckless desire to "see justice done."
- III. Defendant's due process rights were violated when trial court failed to offer defendant opportunity to challenge inaccuracies in his pre-sentence investigative report.
- IV. Defendant was denied due process of law because of ineffective assistance of counsel. Both trial and appellate attorneys demonstrated deficient performances in their representations of defendant.

Petitioner presented his sentencing issues in a delayed application for leave to appeal which was denied by the Michigan Court of Appeals on April 22, 2003, for lack of merit in the grounds presented. The Michigan Supreme Court denied leave to appeal on October 31, 2003. Petitioner raised his sentencing issues again in a motion for relief from judgment which was denied by the trial court and the Michigan appellate courts.

Pursuant to the AEDPA, an application for writ of habeas corpus on behalf of a person who is incarcerated pursuant to a state conviction cannot be granted with respect to any claim that was adjudicated on the merits in state court unless the adjudication: "(1) resulted in a decision that was contrary to, or involved an unreasonable application of, clearly established federal law as determined by the Supreme Court of the United States; or (2) resulted in a decision that was based upon an unreasonable determination of the facts in light of the evidence presented in the state court proceeding." 28 U.S.C. § 2254(d).

The AEDPA limits the source of law to cases decided by the United States Supreme Court. 28 U.S.C. § 2254(d). This provision marks a “significant change” and prevents the district court from looking to lower federal court decisions in determining whether the state decision is contrary to, or an unreasonable application of, clearly established federal law. Herbert v. Billy, 160 F.3d 1131, 1134 (6th Cir. 1998). To justify a grant of habeas corpus relief under this provision of the AEDPA, a federal court must find a violation of law “clearly established” by holdings of the Supreme Court, as opposed to its dicta, as of the time of the relevant state court decision. Williams v. Taylor, 529 U.S. 362, 412 (2000). Recently, the Supreme Court held that a decision of the state court is “contrary to” such clearly established federal law “if the state court arrives at a conclusion opposite to that reached by this Court on a question of law or if the state court decides a case differently than this Court has on a set of materially indistinguishable facts.” Id. A state court decision will be deemed an “unreasonable application” of clearly established federal law “if the state court identifies the correct governing legal principle from this Court’s decisions but unreasonably applies that principle to the facts of the prisoner’s case.” Id. A federal habeas court may not find a state adjudication to be “unreasonable” “simply because that court concludes in its independent judgment that the relevant state-court decision applied clearly established federal law erroneously or incorrectly.” Id. at 412. Rather, the application must also be “unreasonable.” Id. Further, the habeas court should not transform the inquiry into a subjective one by inquiring whether all reasonable jurists would agree that the application by the state court was unreasonable. Id. at 410 (disavowing Drinkard v. Johnson, 97 F.3d 751, 769 (5th Cir. 1996)). Rather, the issue is whether the state court’s application of clearly established federal law is “objectively unreasonable.” Williams, 529 U.S. at 409.

The AEDPA requires heightened respect for state factual findings. Herbert v. Billy, 160 F.3d 1131, 1134 (6th Cir. 1998). The habeas corpus statute has long provided that the factual findings of the state courts, made after a hearing, are entitled to a presumption of correctness. This presumption has always been accorded to findings of state appellate courts, as well as the trial court. See Sumner v. Mata, 449 U.S. 539, 546 (1981); Smith v. Jago, 888 F.2d 399, 407 n.4 (6th Cir. 1989), cert. denied, 495 U.S. 961 (1990). Under the AEDPA, a determination of a factual issue made by a state court is presumed to be correct. The petitioner has the burden of rebutting the presumption of correctness by clear and convincing evidence. 28 U.S.C. § 2254(e)(1); see also Warren v. Smith, 161 F.3d 358, 360-61 (6th Cir. 1998), cert. denied, 527 U.S. 1040 (1999).

Petitioner claims that the judge inaccurately considered the sentencing guidelines. Generally, errors in sentencing do not present a federal issue cognizable in habeas corpus proceedings. See Johnson v. Arizona, 462 F.2d 1352 (9th Cir. 1972); Pringle v. Beto, 424 F.2d 515 (5th Cir. 1970). To the extent that petitioner challenges the correctness of his sentence on the basis of state law, petitioner is not entitled to habeas review unless there has been a fundamental miscarriage of justice. See Bagby v. Sowders, 894 F.2d 792 (6th Cir.), cert. denied, 496 U.S. 929 (1990).

Furthermore, MCL § 750.520(D)(1)(d) provides for a maximum punishment of fifteen years. Therefore, petitioner has not set forth a federal question because his sentence was imposed within the state statutory limit. Haynes v. Butler, 825 F.2d 921, 923-24 (5th Cir. 1987), cert. denied, 484 U.S. 1014 (1988).

[A] state trial court's sentencing decision and claims arising out of the decision are not generally constitutionally cognizable, relief may be required where the petitioner is able to show that the sentence imposed exceeds or is outside the statutory limits, or is wholly unauthorized by law. E.G., Bozza v. United States, 330 U.S. 160,

166, 67 S.Ct. 645, 648-49, 91 L.Ed. 8181 (1947); United States v. Jackson, 696 F.2d 320, 321 (5th Cir. 1983); Willeford v. Estelle, 538 F.2d 1194, 1196-97 (5th Cir. 1976). If the sentence is within the statutory limits, the petitioner must show that the sentencing decision was wholly devoid of discretion or amounted to an “arbitrary or capricious abuse of discretion,” or that an error of law resulted in the improper exercise of the sentence’s discretion and thereby deprived petitioner of his liberty.

Id. at 923-24.

Petitioner’s sentence does not exceed the statutory limit nor has petitioner shown that the sentence amounted to an arbitrary and capricious abuse of discretion. The trial court articulated valid reasons for petitioner’s sentence. The court explained:

This parent sexually abused this girl from age 8 through age 12, literally hundreds of times. Incest doesn’t get any worse than this. The defendant instilled fear of personal harm in the victim and fear of harm to her mother. The long term mental and emotional implications for this child are obvious. The guideline limitations are simply inadequate for the facts of this case.

In the opinion of the undersigned, petitioner has failed to show that his federal rights were violated by his sentence.

Similarly, petitioner’s assertion that he received ineffective assistance of counsel lack merit. In order to prevail on a claim of ineffective assistance of counsel, petitioner must show that counsel’s errors were so serious that he was not functioning as counsel guaranteed by the Sixth Amendment, and that there is a reasonable probability that, but for counsel’s unprofessional errors, the result of the proceeding would have been different. Wong v. Money, 142 F.3d 313, 319 (6th Cir. 1998); Bruner v. Perini, 875 F.2d 531, 535 (6th Cir.), cert. denied, 493 U.S. 938, 110 S. Ct. 334 (1989) (citing Strickland v. Washington, 466 U.S. 668, 688-96, 104 S. Ct. 2052, 2065, 69, 80 L. Ed. 2d 647 (1984)).

There has been ineffective assistance of counsel where an attorney's performance is so deficient as to prejudice the defense and render the trial unfair and the result unreliable. Wong, 142 F.3d at 319; Austin v. Bell, 126 F.3d 843, 847 (6th Cir. 1997), cert. denied, 118 S. Ct. 1547 (1998). Even if a court determines that counsel's performance was outside the wide range of professionally competent assistance, the petitioner is not entitled to relief if his counsel's error had no effect on the judgment. Tucker v. Prelesnik, 181 F.3d 747, 754 (6th Cir. 1999). Rather, a petitioner must show that the probability that the outcome of the case would have been different but for counsel's unprofessional errors is sufficient to undermine confidence in the result. Wong, 142 F.3d at 319; Austin, 126 F.2d at 848. "The performance and prejudice components of the Strickland test are mixed questions of law and fact." Austin, 126 F.2d at 848.

The court's review of defense counsel's performance is highly deferential, and defense counsel is presumed to have rendered adequate assistance by exercising reasonable professional judgment and sound trial strategy. Wong, 142 F.3d at 319; Austin, 126 F.3d at 848. The petitioner must overcome the presumption that, under the circumstances, the challenged actions might be considered sound trial strategy. Strickland, 466 U.S. at 689; Tucker v. Prelesnik, 181 F.3d 747, 754 (6th Cir. 1999). In the opinion of the undersigned, petitioner has failed to show that he received ineffective trial or appellate counsel.

In summary, the undersigned concludes that Petitioner's claims are without merit and therefore recommends that this Court dismiss the petition with prejudice.

In addition, if Petitioner should choose to appeal this action, I recommend that a certificate of appealability be denied as to each issue raised by the Petitioner in this application for habeas corpus relief. Under 28 U.S.C. § 2253(c)(2), the court must determine whether a certificate of appealability should be granted. A certificate should issue if Petitioner has demonstrated a “substantial showing of a denial of a constitutional right.” 28 U.S.C. § 2253(c)(2).

The Sixth Circuit Court of Appeals has disapproved issuance of blanket denials of a certificate of appealability. Murphy v. Ohio, 263 F.3d 466 (6th Cir. 2001). Rather, the district court must “engage in a reasoned assessment of each claim” to determine whether a certificate is warranted. Id. Each issue must be considered under the standards set forth by the Supreme Court in Slack v. McDaniel, 529 U.S. 473 (2000). Murphy, 263 F.3d at 467. Consequently, the undersigned has examined each of Petitioner’s claims under the Slack standard.

Under Slack, 529 U.S. at 484, to warrant a grant of the certificate, “[t]he petitioner must demonstrate that reasonable jurists would find the district court’s assessment of the constitutional claims debatable or wrong.” The undersigned concludes that reasonable jurists could not find that a dismissal of each of Petitioner’s claims was debatable or wrong. Petitioner has not established that he was sentenced in violation of the Constitution or that he received ineffective assistance of counsel. Therefore, the undersigned recommends that the court deny Petitioner a certificate of appealability.

NOTICE TO PARTIES: Objections to this Report and Recommendation must be served on opposing parties and filed with the Clerk of the Court within 10 days of receipt of this Report and Recommendation. 28 U.S.C. § 636(b)(1)(C); Fed. R. Civ. P. 72(b); W.D. Mich. LCivR 72.3(b). Failure to file timely objections constitutes a waiver of any further right to appeal. United States v. Walters, 638 F.2d 947 (6th Cir. 1981). See also Thomas v. Arn, 474 U.S. 140 (1985).
